Why These Natural Ingredients?

The Synergy of Antioxidants

As the value of antioxidants have grown, so have the variety and formulations of antioxidant products.

Scientists have shown that to get the fullest benefit from antioxidant supplementation, it is critical that antioxidants be taken together, rather than one at a time. A therapeutic multi-antioxidant formulation enables antioxidants to help shuttle rogue electrons out from the cell environment where they can be eliminated from the body. Each antioxidant has its strengths and weaknesses when used in isolation. However, when used in combination, they support and enhance each other.

Unfortunately, it is both difficult and expensive to formulate combination antioxidants in this way, and many companies sacrifice formulation strength. Our multi-antioxidant uses therapeutic dosages of all ingredients together in one dose.

There is no comparison for our scientifically matched formulation— pairing the best clinical studies with the best raw ingredient sources to make the most efficacious antioxidant product available.

Free radicals are natural enemies to the body, inflicting harm to immune system function and contributing considerably to the invasions of various degenerative diseases.

Sufficient amounts of antioxidants like those found in Radical Control combat the advancement of free radicals while supporting the body's critical functions and resisting disease.
